We will continue to cooperate with companies that have a high awareness of environmental problems in the future with the aim of realizing a sustainable society. We will do this by developing materials and applications to further enhance the added value of recycled materials in addition to simply recycling discarded fishing nets.

*REAMIDE is recycled nylon resin. We produce it from discarded fishing nets used in the ocean and silicon-coated airbag fabrics. (<http://www.r-inverse.com/business/reamide/>)
